

Importance of agricultural land: Agricultural's land is typically and devoted to agricultural, the systematic and controlled use of other forms of life-particularly the rearing of livestock and production of crops-to produce food for humans. It is generally synonymous with both farmland or cropland, as well as pasture or rangeland. The problem seems to be quite insolvable due to the fact that explosive population growth in some parts of the world is fast outpacing the growth of agricultural output.

Importance and uses of agriculture marketing: Agricultural marketing brings producers and consumers together through a series of activities and thus becomes an essential element of the economic. Agricultural marketing is a process that involves the assembling, storage, processing, transportation, packaging, grading and distribution of different agricultural commodities across the country.

AGRICULTURAL CROP PRODUCTION ANALYSIS (1997-2021)

See an example

Contribution of labour': Labour is one of the most important components out of four factors of agriculture production (land, labour, capital and knowledge). The 2001 census of India defined agricultural labour as a person who works on somebody else's land as labourer for wage in cash or share such as share of produces.

Agricultural components: It includes arable farming, horticulture, animal husbandry and forestry, but horticulture and forestry are in practice often excluded.

